

SCENARIO PAINTBALL

“HIJACKED”

HICKORY HOLLOW

April 25, 2009

Mrs. Collins was the typical grandmother, she baked cookies, played bridge, and loved to show her grandkids pictures to anyone who would look. That is why she was so excited when her daughter told her that if she had a computer that she could have pictures instantly of the grandkids instead of waiting for them to travel across country in the mail. Oh she wasn't sure about what to buy, which is why her daughter flew out to help her mom set up her new system and show her how to email and print pictures. Mrs. Collins was the envy of her friends, they were all jealous of how many new pictures she always had. Until that night when, as they played bridge, the FBI came crashing through the doors and windows.

“Eunice Collins” said the lead agent gruffly, “you are under arrest for global money laundering and internet crimes”
